Wanted—Two thousand dollars; gilt edge security, from anyone who thinks 7 per cent is better than 3 per cent. Call at No. 430 Commercial street. tf

How Do I look.—To really see yourself as others see you, get one of those new style mirrors at Hart's Drug Store; all prices. A new supply just received.

Bear in Mind That Erickson, the nurseryman, always has the latest blooms cut-flowers, shrubs, and ornamental trees, etc., at his down-town establishment, on Bond street, just west of Ross, Higgins & Company grocery. 10-16-3t

Badly Wrenched—Fire Chief Foster has had another go with his bicycle. He was making a run on Sunday last and in attempting to cross the A. E. tracks on Commercial street, near Eleventh, was thrown about twenty feet, landing on his neck and shoulders, and wrenching his back badly. But he is abroad and working, all the same.

Daily Weddings—It's a gloomy day for Astoria when some of her young people fall to step off into the blissful realms of matrimony. On Sunday afternoon last, Rev. C. C. Rarick, pastor of the First M. E. church, was called upon to tie the Hymenal knot for Mr. Roy J. Foster and Miss Minnie Bartoldus; and he did the graceful and grateful service at the church parsonage; and again, yesterday, the same reverend gentleman did like happy service for Mr. J. E. Brown, of Columbia county, and Miss Hilma M. Newquist of this city.

Commercial Saloon—This popular place, situated at 509 Commercial street, is up-to-date in every particular. The choicest of wines and all kinds of liquors can be procured here. Best quality cigars. Billiard table in connection. If you can't come in person, call up Phone 1231 Main. tf

Do You feel sleepy and not a bit like working in the afternoon? Perhaps it's because of the kind of lunch you're eating—too heavy an dtoo hard to digest. Why not try the Palace restaurant on Commercial street, where all the baking is done in those famous slow-process ovens, which turn out light appetizing, wholesome things! You'll save money, too.

PAUL POULDTSEN, EX-FISHERMAN, COMES TO SURFACE OF RIVER AT THE O. R. & N. PIER ON SUNDAY—SOME OF HIS RECENT HISTORY.

On Sunday afternoon last the "tom-coddlers" and other idlers congregated along the 1,000 feet of the O. R. & N. dockage, were galvanized into excited curiosity by the coming to the surface there of a corpse, a man fairly well dressed, and who looked to have been in the water perhaps a week.

Coroner W. C. A. Pohl was at once communicated with and soon arrived with the undertakers' patrol and removed the spectral thing to the morgue, where, under his systematic search some money (about $11.00) and a letter were brought to light. The man was plainly and comfortably dressed and was evidently a working man and very well cared for in a physical way. There were no scars nor bruises upon the body to denote violence or undue means to his death, and the only conclusion, now, is that he had over-indulged in liquor and had fallen to his death from some of the docks.

The letter found on his person was addressed to P. Pouldsen, and was signed by Bertha Knutti, at Minneapolis, the writer evidently being his sister, which fact was developed later, by means of a dispatch, in answer to one of inquiry sent hence to that address by Coroner Pohl. Mrs. Knutti is a sister of the man and she directed that the body be properly and carefully disposed of.

Supplementing this, Jacob Neime, a well known fisherman on the river here, appeared on the scene yesterday and viewed the remains at the morgue, pronouncing them to be those of his late partner, Paul Pouldsen, whose name in the old country was Paul Pavo, and with whom he has worked, on equal terms, the whole of the recent fishing season. They netted, practically, $500 apiece, and of this sum Mr. Neime has $110 for safe keeping and will devote it to the proper burial of his old companion, or so much of it as may be necessary, returning the remainder of that sum to the sister of the drowned man at Minneapolis. Pouldsen was seen last on Sunday evening, October 7, at the house of Matt Tyni, in Uniontown, where he has boarded during the fishing season. Since that time there is no record of his movements, and nothing to indicate where he went to nor who he has been with and in the absence of such detail, the assumption of his death by accident is warranted.

He was 27 years of age, and was a peaceful, pleasant-natured man, according to his partner, and not likely to get into any desperate rows. Mr. Nieme thinks he must have had the better part of three hundred dollars on his person when he fell into the river, and this has disappeared utterly. He had seen Pouldsen last Friday, October 4, when they had a brief conversation together and parted. He has assumed charge of his partner's remains and will attend the funeral this morning from the Pohl undertaking parlors and interment will be had in Greenwood cemetery. The unfortunate man had no fraternal association about here.

Pleasant Prospects—Joseph Gribler, the popular young collector for W. E. Schimpf's office in this city, will leave for the metropolis on this evening's express, where he will make all due arrangements for his wedding tomorrow, to Miss Katie Wirt, the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Wirt, now of Portland, but formerly, and quite recently, of Astoria. Both young people are well known here, and they have the earnest good will of many friends for a bright and prosperous future together. They will do the Sound country on a honey-moon trip and return to Astoria about November 1 and make their future home here.

LYTLE BUYS PART OF TOWN SITE.

Bay City Real Estate is Sold to Railroad Builder.

It is reported on reliable information that W. S. Cone, one of the original founders of Bay City on Tillamook Bay, has sold a half-interest in all his holdings, which comprise about half of the town site, to E. E. Lytle, for a consideration of $20,000.

Bay City is once more coming to the front and is, the scene of considerable activity, new firms going in and property changing hands. Watts Bros. have just built a new store building and the goods to stock it will be taken in on the next trip of the steamer Elmore.

BOND STREET GHOST ON EXHIBITION

HEADLESS WOMAN ROUSES HER CUSTOMARY INTEREST BUT EVADES THE DOUGHTIEST OF HER PURSUERS.

The headless woman is again the object of terror, greater or less, to the inhabitants of West Bond street. For several nights past she has been flirting with pedestrians out that way and has secured quite an agitated and interesting following.

On Sunday night last, her habitat was discovered in an old house on West Bond street, and owned by John Stephens and there are all sorts of hair-raising yarns abroad of individual experiences had during the past 48 hours, but none of them tangible enough to run down to a conclusion worth repeating. The old house has been more or less torn to pieces by those whose temerity permitted them to enter and search for the spook; and she has appeared in quite definite form to a number, always headless, always silent, but on hand just the same.

Last night another crowd attended the seance out that way and enjoyed all the customary shivers, did the full stunt of imagining, but no record of startling importance has reached this office.

A Wet Parade—Hi Henry's introduction to Astoria was largely in the nature of a dampening ovation for the elements but awaited the starting of the street parade to let loose their wrath and the down-pour just at that time was the most severe of the season. Only the high standard of excellence characteristic of Henry's band precluded the base suspicion that the music wrung tears from above.

Leaves on the First—U. S. Senator C. W. Fulton expects to leave for the national capital on or about the first of November, and will then make his recommendations to the president in the matter of collectorship of customs at Portland, presumably in favor of P. S. Malcolm.

Hi Henry's Minstrels—The new Astoria theater was comfortably filled last night, despite the unpropitious weather, to enjoy the high-class entertainment scheduled in the Hi Henry minstrel bill, and that the last person left the house satisfied and pleased, is putting it mildly. If there was any complaint at all, it was at not getting enough on the bill, as one or two numbers were canceled for insuperable reasons. The bill offered was clean, refreshing and amusing and its rendering

Returned from Nehalem—William Reed, the well known Portland capitalist and railroad projector, accompanied by his engineer, returned to this city late yesterday afternoon from a jaunt of several weeks' duration in the Nehalem country, but upon just what sort of enterprise could not be ascertained. They departed for Portland on the 6:10 express and anything of moment in relation to their excursion into the southern wilds of Clatsop will develop in the course of time and Mr. Reed's urbanity.
